

The Mercury.

JOHN H. BARKER, Editor and Proprietor.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, '88.

The latest figures give the Republicans 172 Representatives in the next Congress, and the Democrats 168. This gives the Republicans 10 majority.

Our friends of the Daily News have been claiming for some weeks past that Rhode Island was a doubtful State. The returns hardly confirm their predictions.

It seems that the people of the nation want that "Chinese wall of Protection" that the Providence Journal has called about so much for the last two months.

The voters of the loyal north showed on Tuesday that they are not ready to adopt the free trade policy of old England. Protection to American industry is still the war-cry.

The next morning after the Presidential election all American securities opened firm and higher in the London market. This shows that the world looks upon Republican success as a guarantee of financial stability.

West Virginia has wheeled into the Republican line, and the solid South is broken. The latest returns indicate that the Republican victory there is complete. Harrison's majority will be at least 2000. Goff is elected Governor by a large majority. The legislature is Republican, and all the congressmen are Republicans. The solid South is no more.

Ex-Lieutenant Governor Samuel H. Hony, of the Democratic National Committee, says that Mr. Cleveland will be re-elected, and that the Republicans will be surprised when the voters in Rhode Island are counted.

The last part of the prediction has become true. The Republicans are surprised—at the magnificent proportions of their victory. They did not expect anything like it. They would have been entirely satisfied with a hundred plurality in Newport. Instead of that they have nearly three hundred. They never expected over 200 plurality in the State, but they have got considerably over 400. Colonel, you are a good prophet.

The three territories, Dakota, Montana and Washington, show their right to statehood by the intelligent manner in which they cast their votes at the late election. Dakota gave the Republican ticket over 25,000 majority. Montana elected a Republican congressman for the first time in her history, showing a change of nearly 9000 votes for the last election. Washington elects John H. Allen to congress over Dan Voorhees' son, showing a change of nearly 8000 votes. These three territories will make four stalwart states, and should be admitted to the Union without delay.

The three territories that have been denied admission to the Union by the Democratic party, although having more than the requisite population, are Dakota, Montana, and Washington. Dakota has over 700,000 population, and Washington over 800,000. These territories are filling up at a very rapid rate and with a good class of people. We have traveled through the length and breadth of all three of these great empires in the Northwest, we have conversed with the people and know whereof we affirm when we say that no State in the Union has a more honest, industrious or intelligent class of citizens than are to be found in these three territories. The people are settling in Dakota and Washington with surprising rapidity, and the population is largely an agricultural class, which is the most conservative kind of a population. They are building up great and powerful industries in these territories, and the population before 1890 will probably be nearly double what it is now. To keep these territories out of the Union one day longer is an outrage that neither party can afford to be guilty of. All three of these territories have chosen Republican delegates to Congress at this election, and there is no question but that they will be solidly Republican for many years. Dakota should be divided and made two States, thus insuring to the Union four additional States. One of the first duties of the 51st Congress should be to render justice to the long delayed claims of these territories.

The Victory.

The Republican victory on Tuesday is complete and gratifying in every respect. The returns, as they continue to come in, show the still greater proportion of the magnificent victory.—President Harrison is elected by at least 77 majority in the electoral college, the next House of Representatives is Republican by from ten to twenty majority, and we have gained one or two majority in the Senate. In short, every branch of the government will after the fourth of March next be in the hands of the Republican party. This has not been the case before for many years.

The enormous magnitude of the victory is shown, however, more clearly in the tremendous majorities that every northern State, with two exceptions, has rolled up for the side of honest government. These majorities show most emphatically that the free North is not in favor of free trade and all of its concomitant evils. It shows, too, that the weak, vacillating administration of President Cleveland is condemned and repudiated. It shows that the four years revival of the anti-bellum rule of the Southern confederates is still distasteful to the loyal North. In this respect the victory at the polls on Tuesday may well be called a second Gettysburg. The Republicans now have the control of the nation, let them use their power in such a manner as to retain the confidence the people have placed in them.

THE ELECTION.

Returns from all the States in Detail—A Great Republican Victory—Harrison has 230 Electoral Votes—The Next Congress Solidly Republican.

The returns from the various States of the Union are now sufficiently complete as to indicate the result with substantial accuracy. It has been a great victory for the Republicans as the following figures will show:

THE ELECTORAL VOTE.	1888.	1884.
Alabama	10	7
Arkansas	7	3
California	9	8
Colorado	3	3
Connecticut	7	6
Delaware	3	3
Florida	12	12
Georgia	12	12

Virginia	12	12
Washington	6	6
Wisconsin	11	11
Total	230	162

Majority, 1884, Cleveland, 31.

The following is the result by States:

Alabama. Democratic of course. Majority as large as the managers see fit to make it. 8 Democratic Congressmen.

Arkansas. Democratic; 6 Democratic Congressmen.

California. Republican by at least 1000. Four Republican and two Democratic Congressmen are elected, which makes a Republican gain of two.

Colorado. Republican by a largely increased majority. A Republican congressman elected.

Connecticut. Democratic by about 250 plurality. No election of the Governor by the people. The State Senate is 17 Republicans, 7 Democrats; House of Representatives 151, Republicans, 98 Democrats, Republican majority on joint ballot 63. Last year it was 31. This insures the election of a Republican governor and other State officers by the legislature. There are two Republican and two Democratic Congressmen elected, a Republican gain of one.

Delaware. Democratic by a small majority, but for the first time in the history of the State the Republicans have carried the legislature and will have two majority on joint ballot. This will give a Republican U. S. Senator in the place of Saulsbury, who is a sort of hereditary Senator in that State. One Democratic Congressman elected.

Florida. This is another of the solid South which could have just as well been figured up before election as after. Democratic electors are reinforced and two Democratic Congressmen counted in.

Georgia. Solidly Democratic with 10 Democratic Congressmen.

Illinois. This is one of the States that our Democratic friends called doubtful.—Harrison has over 20,000 majority, and Fifer, the Republican candidate, is elected governor by over 10,000. The legislature is Republican. The Republicans have elected 14 Congressmen and the Democrats 8.

Indiana. President Harrison's own State did not go back on him, though it has been strongly claimed by the opposition. The indications are that the Republican majority will not be less than 6000, and that Gen. Hovey, the Republican nominee, is elected governor by a slightly decreased majority. The legislature is also Republican. The Congressional delegation will stand 4 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

Iowa. This is another of the so-called doubtful States the Providence Journal and other Mugwump papers said was surely going for Cleveland. It did go for him, but not in the way they would have us believe. Harrison's majority in this State will be over 30,000. The Republicans have 10 congressmen and the Democrats 1. A Republican gain of 9.

Kansas. This is without doubt the Republican banner State. Harrison's majority will not fall short of 75,000 and will have 7 Republican congressmen. This State is substantially unanimous.

Kentucky. Another of the States of the solid South, though the Democratic majority is less than in former years. The Republicans have elected three congressmen out of eleven, a gain of one. Speaker Carlisle is re-elected, though he will hardly be Speaker in the next Congress.

Louisiana. Democratic with five Democratic congressmen out of six.

Maine. The State of Maine sends greeting to Louisiana's favorite son and gives him at least 25,000 majority. That is enough for all practical purposes. If President Harrison sees fit to reciprocate by making Maine's favorite son Secretary of State to good Republican will object. This State sends four Republican congressmen, but they were elected in September.

Maryland. Cleveland, Gorman, Higgins & Co. have this State well on hand for the Democrats. The Republicans claim three congressmen out of five.

Massachusetts. The old Bay State has done nobly.

Harrison's majority is over 20,000. Gov. Ames is re-elected by a slightly smaller majority. The entire Republican State ticket is elected, and the legislature is nearly two to one Republican. Ten Republican congressmen are chosen and two Democrats, a Republican gain of two. Col. Higginson, the noted Mugwump who undertook to down Gen. Banks, is badly left.

This State the Democrats confidently expected to carry, but it seems that they were as usual premature in their prognostications. The Republican majority is larger than it was four years ago. The Republican State ticket is elected and the legislature is largely the same way. The Republicans have also congressmen and the Democrats two, a Republican gain of three. Congressman Ford, one of Newport's former citizens, is defeated.

Minnesota. This is another State the Democracy marked doubtful, though the returns do not seem to justify such figuring. Harrison carries the State by at least 25,000 majority. The Republican State ticket is elected. The Republicans elected all five congressmen, leaving nothing for the Democracy. This is a gain of four congressmen for the Republicans.

Mississippi. The Mississippi plan worked this year as usual. Democracy majority here as large as the Democratic mathematician wishes to make it. Seven Democratic congressmen returned.

Missouri. Cleveland carries the State by a substantial majority. The Democrats elect 7 Congressmen and the Republicans 7, a gain of 4 to the latter party.

Montana. The Republican majority in this State is 25,000 and the Republican candidate for governor is elected by 25,000. The Republicans have two congressmen and the Democrats one.

Nebraska. Republican majority about 3000, one Republican Congressman.

New Hampshire. The Granite State is as firm as her hills in the Republican ranks. Harrison has about 2000 majority. No election of Governor by the people. Legislature Republican. Two Republican congressmen elected, a Republican gain of one.

New Jersey. The liquor question was evidently more potent in this State than protection. The Republicans went in for high license, the Democrats for free whiskey. The latter with the aid of the Prohibitionists won by a large majority. The Democratic plurality will be about 5000. The legislature is Democratic in both houses. This insures the election of a Democratic U. S. Senator. It will make no difference in the result as the present incumbent is a Democrat. The Republicans have five Representatives and the Democrats two.

New York. This is the State that carried the day for the Republicans. New York for many years has been the pivotal State. This year both parties made great efforts for its capture. The Democrats, as usual, had everything their own way in New York city and Brooklyn. In New York city Cleveland's majority is 57,213, an increase of 14,000 over four years ago. Kings County which contains the city of Brooklyn, went Democratic by 11,004, which is 4000 less than four years ago. But the Republican majority in the rest of the State is sufficient to offset this and give Harrison a plurality of 12,378. Gov. Hill is re-elected by about 10,000 plurality. The rest of the State ticket is Republican. In New York city Tammany rules the roost. Grant is elected Mayor. All the congressmen from New York city are Tammany men, and most of the board of aldermen are the same complexion. The New York assembly is strongly Republican. The Congressional delegation will stand 18 Republicans and 16 Democrats, a Democratic gain of one.

North Carolina. Democratic by a large majority, with a Democratic legislature. The Republicans elect four congressmen out of nine.

Ohio. This is the "Old Roman's" own State, but he could not have it for the Democracy. Harrison will have 28,000 majority in this State. The Republicans elect 18 congressmen and the Democrats 5.—McKinley, who will in all probability be the speaker of the next House, is re-elected by a large majority.

Pennsylvania. This State is as firm as the hills, and may always be counted on to give a good Republican majority. The returns this year place it at 75,000. The new congressional delegation is composed of 20 Republicans and 8 Democrats. A Republican gain of one. The State Senate will be composed of 35 Republicans and 15 Democrats, a Republican gain of one. The House will have 142 Republicans and 39 Democrats, with three doubtful districts to hear from. This is a Republican gain of about eight members.

Rhode Island. Little Rhode Island did herself great credit in this election. As soon as the Providence Journal was well out of the Republican party a large majority for that ticket was assured. Harrison's majority over Cleveland is about 4000, and both Republican congressmen are elected by good-sized majorities.

South Carolina. It is needless to say this State went Democratic, and seven Democratic representatives will have seats in the next Congress unless the Republicans see that justice is done by turning out those who were not honestly elected.

Tennessee. The Democrats have carried Tennessee by the usual majority. The congressional delegation stands two Republicans and eight Democrats.

Texas. The Lone Star State is the bright spot in the Democratic escutcheon. Whatever other States may do Texas remains steadfast. Cleveland's majority will be somewhere near 100,000. The Democrats have a solid congressional delegation of eleven, one of whom is Roger Q. Mills.

Vermont. Harrison's majority in this State is more than double Cleveland's entire vote. The congressmen are both Republicans. They were elected at the September election.

Virginia. This is one of the States of the solid South not so solid as the Democracy wish it was. Cleveland has carried it by a small majority. The Republicans have elected six congressmen and the Democrats five.

West Virginia. The solid South as far as this State is concerned is solid no longer. West Virginia has thrown off the bonds that have so long bound her to slavery, and wheels into the solid Republican column. Harrison has carried the State by 2000 majority. Goff is elected governor. The legislature is Republican and the solid congressional delegation is Republican.

Wisconsin. This State went Republican by an increased majority over the State election. The congressman is Republican.

Wyoming. The Republican majority in this State will be not less than 21,000. The legislature is overwhelmingly Republican. The congressmen are seven Republicans and two Democrats, a gain of three to the former party.

It is reported that one of the manufacturing proprietors of the Providence Journal said before election, that unless he had free wool he should close his business. Now is the time for him to put that threat into operation.

Well Merited Praise.

Says the Boston Advertiser: Against opponents who had only to hold the fort to win, Chairman Quay lasted the republican campaign with signal discretion and ability. He has made no blunders, and has forced the democrats and their independent allies to fight desperately to hold their ground in every debatable district in the country. Even if he had failed to carry the fort by assault, his unflinching devotion and capacity would have been heartily recognized by republicans everywhere, and there would have been no ungrateful or shaming reflections upon his services. To no one man is there more credit due for the triumph of Tuesday than to Matthew S. Quay.

[From the Washington Star.] A ROMANCE OF NEWPORT.

A New Haven Man to Marry a Girl He Saved from Death.

A New Haven, Conn., dispatch says that Miss W. Selke, to whom $15,000 was bequeathed by a wealthy New Yorker for saving his daughter's life at Newport in the summer of 1881, left this city last week, and his infatuated friends say he has gone to New York to marry the girl whose life he saved.

According to the story told by Selke himself he was on the deck of a schooner entering Newport harbor late at night when he saw a young girl row out from the shore, and when near the schooner stand up and plunge into the water. Selke threw off his surplus clothing and jumped overboard, reaching the young lady just as she was about to sink for the last time. He placed her in the boat she had abandoned and rowed it ashore. It was late at night and all fashionable Newport had gone to rest by the time Selke and his fair charge reached the land, so that it was an easy thing for the rough-and-ready sailor to induce the bewildered girl to tell where she lived. To avoid a scandal the pair walked to the young lady's residence on one of the fashionable avenues. She was met by her father, who, as might be imagined, was somewhat surprised to learn that his daughter had attempted to poison and to her life. She told him her story and a card was sent to her. During the summer she had met a young man of fascinating manners. She was pretty and charming and she was agreeable. The end of it was that her lover betrayed her.

Selke at the time received $1,000 with a promise of more provided he would never divulge the name of the girl he had heroically rescued. He promised, and the next morning the young lady and her parents moved to New York, where Selke has often visited the family and has taken much interest in the girl and her baby boy. The girl's father died some months ago leaving a will by the terms of which Selke was to get $15,000 in cash, providing he would marry the girl. He left for New York last week to make good his claim for the money, leaving a sweetheart behind him to mourn his loss.

Who the New York girl is or what business her father was in cannot be ascertained, as upon this point Selke has been ordered to pay silence. He refused to tell his mother when pressed to do so before leaving.

Programme for the Observance in New York April 30, Next.

Chauncey M. Depew has consented to deliver the oration on the occasion of the centennial celebration of Washington's inauguration, April 30 next. Dr. Storrs will offer prayer. Whittier will read a poem. Archbishop Corrigan will pronounce the benediction. The President of the United States, Gen. Harrison, who will come over the route taken by Washington, arriving by boat from Elizabethtown, N. J., will speak. Foreign dignitaries and American notables will take part. There will be a grand parade.

The Governor of Utah, in his annual report, notes a disposition among the Mormons to recognize the Gentiles in local government matters. There should be no mistake made about this matter. This tendency is one solely to the pressure of Gentile sentiment and enterprise, and the anti-Polygamy law. The way to bring the Utah matter to a satisfactory conclusion is to keep up the pressure. If removed, with the expectation of a change of Mormon heart, all that has been gained will be lost.

FORGOTTEN FOLK.—The Life of Gen. P. H. Sheridan. By Rev. P. O. Headley.

The hero of the present narrative is one of the boys of our heart, and they will read with pride and delight the record of his bold deeds, from the time of his first experience in horsemanship riding, until he emerges the last great leader of the Northern troops, covered with glory and surrounded by the history of his conflict. Like many other brilliant characters, he achieved success by personal effort, beginning at the lowest round of the ladder, he earned his daily bread by such odd jobs as he could command. An interesting chapter is devoted to his life at West Point, the young reader gathering a very good idea of the course of study and discipline in the Military Academy. The story is charmingly told in the author's best style, and is calculated to inspire to brave deeds the youthful mind. This volume fittingly closes "The Young Folks Heroes of the Revolution," a series making a library for the young, no less instructive than entertaining. Lee & Shepard. For sale by C. E. Hammett.

DAVE BRUNER.—Margaret Macdonald Pullman.

A book to challenge the admiration of all lovers of the beautiful in nature and art, is the one to which our attention is called. Dainty fingers have reproduced in miniature, visions of field and shore, described by some apt and delicate sentiment of a poetical quotation. The pictures are only in black and white, but display the hand of the artist talent to exceed the oils which the clever eye is able to discern from Nature's lavish colors. It may be only a few odd dimes carelessly tossed upon the open page, but they are true copies of these "children of the fields," and how sweet the lines accompanying—

"Wee, little dimes wheel of fate,
With silver specks and bits of yellow,
What gentle girl, in secret smiles,
Has sought your aid to find a mate?"

The typographical work is perfect. The cover is in cloth richly and artistically decorated. Lee & Shepard. For sale by C. E. Hammett.

ALL ABOUT THE WORLD.—J. Pauline Sumner.

This is the very applicable name of a little calendar, consisting of gracefully illustrated cards, each representing a month, arranged upon the calendar to a white silk cord. The title card contains in delicate colors a tiny vignette of two bits of humanity in broad blues and bums, with an appropriate setting. The other pictures are in sepia, "too sweet for anything," and except on close inspection, the whole looks like a combination of painted sheets of ivory.

One could hardly find a more appropriate gift of remembrance. Lee & Shepard.

The graceful fingers of Miss Sumner are again employed to beautiful effect, in illustrating two poems of Dinah March Montague, the gifted authoress. Each little volume consists of leaves of heavy cream colored card, bound flexibly together by a pretty ribbon. Pictures in sepia, most gracefully executed, adorn the inner pages. "A Christmas Carol" bears upon its cover the kneeling figure of a tiny girl, apparently enjoying the touch of the softly falling snowflakes, in which there is no suggestion of chill, even in the bare, plump knee resting on the clear, blue ice, for the blue flesh is rosy, and the atmosphere soft, while the snowflakes spring a leafy shrub, in fruit, birds perched upon its branches, their throats swelled in sweet song.

"The head of a young girl 'sweetly serene' rising above a bank of violets, executed in all the delicate tints so much admired on ivory, adorns the second poem, "A Friend Stands at the Door." Artistic gems are these worthy the high praise of all artists and children. Lee & Shepard. For sale by C. E. Hammett.

THE ADVENTURES OF A CHINESEMAN. Jules Verne.

With the unexcelled ability of endowing a very fanciful tale with a grave appearance of reality, the author succeeds admirably in interesting his readers in a hero whose nationality is not generally suggestive of romance, to the average American. In common with some of his Western cousins, this Asiatic gentleman, rich, cultured, of fine social position, learns only how to appreciate pleasure after lasting trouble and torment. A narration of his vicissitudes is an interesting portion of the book, some of the situations being provocative of much merriment on the part of the reader. Intervened with the story, as is the wily art of the author, is much history and geography of China, the manners and customs of her strange peoples. Lee & Shepard. For sale by C. E. Hammett.

UP THE NORTH BRANCH. Capt. Farnes.

This is the fourth number of the "Lake and Forest Club" series, and is most joyfully hailed by the many boys who are already well acquainted with the characters of the story. So graphically does the author recite the exploits of these young explorers, that the reader, engrossed, forgets that he is not personally struggling with difficulties continually besetting the path of his plucky heroes. The trip extends through the wilds of Maine, by way of the North Branch of the Penobscot, into New Brunswick by the St. Johns, a distance of more than a thousand miles. With the heartily exciting story of their perils, dilemmas, and many awkward situations, much information is given regarding this partially unexplored and little known section of the New England and Canadian wilderness. The story ends with the tragic death of the men who plotted to murder Claude and Wingate, as narrated in Down the West Branch, and who thus escaped a felon's death. The next volume of the series is to be "Southward Bound; or, Camp Life in Florida." Lee & Shepard. For sale by C. E. Hammett.

TAKEN BY THE ENEMY. Oliver Optic.

This volume begins another series "The Blue and the Gray," by the prolific author dear to the boyish heart. The story opens as the portentous news of a war between the North and the South, is first brought to the knowledge of a wealthy yachtsman, as he was about to enter the harbor of New York after a winter's cruise of several months. With him were his wife and son, while his daughter was with his beloved, only brother, a resident and property owner of Alabama. The terrible nature of the civil war is illustrated by the conduct of these two brothers, whose interests led them to espouse the cause of opposed sections. It seems hardly necessary for the author to apologize for indulging another war series, for as long as there are boys to learn, the story of a great civil contest must be told, and in no way can its effects be so graphically impressed as by the story teller. The loyalty and patriotism of the North should not be allowed to be forgotten for the sake of soothing the sensitive nerves of those whose side was the wrong one. We welcome the series, and give it the hearty approval which it merits. Lee & Shepard. For sale by C. E. Hammett.

It remains to be seen whether the distinction in Afghanistan has been a revelation or a mere instruction.

New Magazines.

After a short absence, we find, with other accumulated matter upon our desk, the first number of "The Home Maker," bearing the name of Marion Jarland as Editor-in-Chief, a sure guarantee of a bright, breezy journal, teeming with matter of noble purpose which shall bring to every home some special good. The associate Editors are Christine Terhune Herliker and Grace Peckham, M. D. Among the list of contributors for the month are Rose Terry Cook, illustrating the domesticity of appearance by a clever little story, entitled "A Street Angel"; Catherine Owen, suggesting many valuable ideas to those forced to make a little go a great way in the selection of a city home, gives No. 1, of Cheap Living in Large Cities; Helen Everson Smith, editing an unpublished Ms. of 1775, entitled "Lull by a Vision," an exceedingly interesting story of a kind rare in these prosaic days; Octave Thurner, A. D. T. Whitney, Hester M. Poole, M. E. Sangster, giving valuable bits of information in the department With The House Wife; Kate Upson Clarke, in Our Young People; Mary C. Huntington, in Home-Work for Home-Makers. The high moral and literary tone of the magazine warrants the success which we earnestly hope for it.

Scilbner's Magazine for November contains a notable group of articles by eminent men, two of whom—General Philip H. Sheridan and Lester Wallace—have recently died. It also has the first installment of a romantic novel of adventure, by Robert Louis Stevenson, which promises to rival "Kidnapped" in popularity. General A. W. Greely, Augustine Hurl, and W. C. Brewster are among the contributors, while letters like A. B. Frost, William Hale and Rufus Zogbaum have furnished elaborate illustrations. The publishers announce that the completion of the second year will be signified by the publication of a very interesting and beautiful Christmas number.

In the current number the eminently successful magazine for young people, St. Nicholas, begins a new volume. The editor, Mary Mapes Dodge, calls it "an all-around-the-world year," because it is to contain a great number of stories and papers about the world in general, although, as is eminently proper, America will contain the bulk of the illustrated contents. Under the leadership of the introduction to the front of the Republic, which we hope the youth of both sexes will study; this is but the initial number but it promises much valuable information which should be in the possession of every live wide awake boy and girl too, of this noble commonwealth. The number as in usual, contains much instructive matter, as well as that which is simply entertaining. The prospectus for the year is most appealing, and if but one half of its readers follow it in, this magazine will have performed a most important part in the instruction of the rising generation.

You can't afford to laugh, dear girls, unless your mouth is pink and sweet, and your two lips in rosy-bud meet. And you cannot simply this want, but through the use of SCIZHONT.

To beautify when it discloses a pretty set of teeth. Whichever, when a normal supply of this element of loveliness, may be reduced through life, by using the fragrant SCIZHONT.

"Is your cough any easier?" asked, one of poor Houd's acquaintances, on calling to see how he was. "It should be," said the wit from his pillow. "I've been practicing all night."

Pain from indigestion, dyspepsia, and too hearty eating is relieved at once by taking one of Carter's Little Liver Pills immediately after dinner. Don't forget this.

"Are you lost, my little fellow?" asked a young gentleman of a four-year-old, one day, in Rochester. "No," he solemnly replied, "but my mother is."

My friend, look here! you know how weak and nervous your wife is, and you know that Carter's Little Liver Pills will cure her. Why not be fair about it and buy her a box?
